"THE EARTH'S NOBLEST THING"

Prof. Green Addressed a Splendid Gathering at the Women's Meeting on Sunday Afternoon.

Three hundred and fifty-one women gathered at the Bristol Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon and listened to a splendid address by Prof. Francis Green, of West Chester.

Following the precedent of former years at the close of the men's meetings, Rev. Johnston arranged a meeting for women only, and many have been the complimentary remarks concerning last Sunday's treat. A fine musical programme was also rendered. Prof. Green's address was as follows:

PROF. GREEN'S ADDRESS.

In an admirable work, destined in my mind to become classic, Henry Drummond considered Love, you will recall, as the greatest thing in the world. Faith has been pronounced as the foremost thing in the world. Hope has been designated by still another author as the last thing in the world. I told the pastor of this church, in connection with coming to you this afternoon, that I would consider "The Noblest Thing in the World," or "Earth's Noblest Thing."

What shall we pronounce the noblest thing, if Love is the greatest thing, Faith the foremost thing and Hope the last thing? If I could canvass this gathering this afternoon, there would be a difference of opinion as to what is the noblest thing in the world. If I took a vote a variety of opinions would be advanced as to what is earth's noblest thing. Is it to be found in nature about us, in the outer world, in the grass and in the flower?

Henry Ward Beecher pronounced flowers as the sweetest things that God ever made and forgot to put a soul into them. I am not sure in regard to the forgetfulness of our Eternal Father of all of us. Flowers, beautiful as they are, I do not believe we could term them noble. Is Niagara one of the noblest things in the world? I so often recall my first experience as I looked upon that great wonder of America. It was at the midnight hour and there was not disappointment about it, but I have heard people say they were disappointed in the first view of it. I recall the pleasure as I said to my companion: "Let us go down and see the Falls." It is easy to know the place, although it was my first visit. The rush and roaring sound so noticeable in the stillness of the midnight hour. We walked down and standing beside the falls, we remained silent. It was so clear in the moonlight we could actually see a rainbow. I took out my watch looked at it, twenty minutes passed and I shall never forget that sublime sight. It stirred much in my better nature, I simply took my hat off. I thank God he gave me the opportunity of looking at that splendid scene. I pronounced that one of the noblest things in God's nature. I saw it at the sunset hour the next day. I said to my companion as we went to bed: "As we have seen the falls by midnight, moonlight and sunset, now I want to see it by sunrise." "You may get up if you want to, but I don't want to do it." At about 4.30 I scrambled out of bed and stood there all alone by the falls. Not a sound except the rush and roar of the mighty cataract, not even the milk wagon going along the streets; finally the birds began to chirp a little as the dawn came on.

"Angels robed in spotless white,
Bent down and kissed the sleeping night.
Night waked to blush, the sprite was gone;
Man saw the blush, and called it dawn."

The rays of the sun played around about, their rainbows were formed. I took a card out of my pocket and wrote a little card to mother voicing my feelings, as I sat in the presence of the Eternal and Almighty voice of His upon the earth. Sublime, yes, but I hardly call it noble.

I do not believe we are going to seek out the noble in the physical world around us. We speak of a fine horse, but do not apply the term noble; although there may be some horses that are more deserving of the term than some human beings. In a bit of a verse by Bayard Taylor, he speaks of a noble horse that died at the age of 42 years. I have known of horses that have deserved heaven more than some human beings, but I would not designate a horse as the noblest thing in the world.

We do not speak of the nobility of nature of a dog. While there are some fine helpful dogs that have nobility in their nature. Is it in art, be it simple or classic art? As I stood in that room, perhaps some of you have stood in just the same room in Paris, and looked at the gathering of art in one direction after another, it was beautiful, sublime, superb, but I do not know as I would exactly call them noble.

As you stand in the presence of a building, man may sometimes designate it as noble. Are books noble, I sound their praises constantly. I love to live in their presence, but not even the Bible, as a book, is the noblest thing in the world. Some suggest clothes may make higher nobility. Is patriotism, love for country, nobility? Where is the truest nobility to be found? You say it is love in humanity. We are told a story back here in Genesis that when God made man, he pronounced him very good. The noblest thing is to be found in man, in the historic soul of the mighty past or the courageous christian of the living present. Would that there were more numerous today than they are. While the noblest thing is to be pre-eminent in man, it is pre-eminently presented in woman, so I take it.

Lowell, as he wrote in his poem "Irene," which I would like to prompt: "Earth's noblest thing: a woman, perfected." "Earth's noblest thing: a woman, perfected." Is such a thing easy to find? I rather think not. I do not know what your notion may be. I do not care to be uncomplimentary in my discussion, but a perfect woman is not so easy to find.

You remember what Mrs. Jones said when asked if she knew a perfect woman. She said: "Yes, Mr. Jones' first wife." There may have been a circumstance of that kind with a degree of truth in it, perhaps. I don't know.

There are lots of good women all over this land aiming at perfection, trying at least to aim at it. It is a great deal better to aim and miss than not to aim at all. Before calling the gentler sex to the elements of the worthiest womanhood, I want at least to say a few words for the brothers.

I confess I knew this was to be a women's meeting, but I thought men would be here and women also; but I don't know where the men would sit. I thought that was to be the arrangement. I hope as a group of women, I have a message for them and if the men who have frequented this place, these discussions are fitting for every man married or single, for every man is the son of some mother. Many men are brothers of some girl; many a man is a lover of some sweetheart; many a man husband to some woman; many a man father of some daughter. Which relationship do we stand in regard to her? I know my own position in regard to the matter and so do you. It concerns the son because of the mother; the brother because of the sister; husband because of wife; father because of daughter. I might say as men here, we might ask ourselves whether we are worthy of the names of brother, son, husband or father. It is not only a privilege, but it is the greatest responsibility. I will just ask you, if you appreciate it properly, whether we are worthy enough to have the kindly demonstration of a group of people pronounced here as earth's noblest things? Why shall we pronounce her "earth's noblest thing." I do not want to take out my qualifications, that would be presumptuous, I want to ask that we turn our attention to the facts presented by a far higher authority than any of ourselves here this afternoon.

I draw upon a picture in Proverbs, I will begin with the tenth verse and conclude with the 29th verse of the 31st chapter of Proverbs. Listen as I read it, listen more thoughtfully, more carefully than you ever listened in your lifetime; for if I preach I must have some sort of a text, and want to get it from God's word. Some seem to think ofttimes that the reading of the scripture is simply introductory and do not pay much attention to it. Some think there is a lack of importance about the concluding part of a service. I know if I were conducting a church and men and women were putting on their over-shoes before the benediction was pronounced, I am not sure but that I would have something tart to say out of a feeling of righteous indignation. Everyone of you who were at church this morning, do you know what was read by the minister or what the lesson was? Now I want you all to pay the closest attention to this and be sure you know what every word is. Now listen and mark characteristics: Refer to our Bibles: Proverbs 31st chapter, 10th to 30th verse.

A woman set forth in this way is designated as the noblest thing in God's word. The first part is for the young man, a young man's directory. Ruin is the first chapter. The second chapter shows the benefits of wisdom. The third, the benefits of wisdom's way, and thus chapter after chapter until we come to the 31st chapter. This closing chapter is divided into two parts; the first part deals with woman's honor; the second deals with man's ideal of woman. This ideal was probably presented from memory, some think it imaginary, but here is portrayed Solomon's mother; here is given a clear description of some particular woman. This advice of the book, I might say, portrays a poem, for each verse has two lines except the 15th, that has more than two lines.

In the first three verses of this which I read to you I find introductory matter; in the last four conclusion. I did not read the last two verses of it. The last four verses is conclusion with the masterly picture of the ideal woman. Think of the fine picture if you will, "Who can find a virtuous woman?" The world's virtues have a great sweep, not merely in the sense of chastity; no one worthy the name of woman but has that characteristic. Of course, all of us, men and women, have some weaknesses, Dr. Jeykils and Mr. Hydes to some extent.

Women are more likely to be virtuous than men; that being the case, when women are bad, if they are, they seem fearfully bad. I consider this chapter, giving this picture of ideal women, marked by three things, pure, powerful and positive. Free entirely from the lust of the flesh, following a blameless life spiritually, not the animal dominates her nature. How fearful a sight is designated by a fallen woman. I do not believe in a lost woman, no woman is lost while God lives and loves the lost. Men consider this matter of approach in woman as pre-eminent over man, and need to show in their own lives these superb qualities so much admired in women.

Three men went out one night. Three girls lives were broken that night. When they all meet before God's justice bar, what then? Woman ought to hold man up to the same high standard as man holds them in regard to the matter of approach. Women are chaste, pure and along with that, powerful. You will find as you read further, protrayed a picture of her as strong, not flimsy flabby kind, but good for something. You will see in the 17th verse she girdeth her loins with strength. She has bodily vigor, a spiritualist. I believe in wise physical culture, nimble, firmness, richness of blood, nobility of animal nature, so you will see from this she is positive in her make-up. She is not a negative, but positively good. Does good to her husband and mankind, not evil all the days of her life. Does things; is a powerful substantial animal.

One of the requisites for fine manhood or womanhood is to be a good animal along with a pure, powerful and positive, charitable and truthful nature. She doeth good, not evil, all the days, not spasmodically, occasionally, once in a while, when men's meeting comes along, a week of prayer, or convention, but constant in virtue all the days of her life.

To me the most admirable thought is that saying of God's word in which He says, "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today and forever." She is constant in her nature, in her advice kind, not in the divorce court, not shifting in her affections. I tell you if she were more abounding the courts would not have so much to do in the way of applications for divorce. Last year I was surprised at the statistics; 1,130,000 divorces were issued. What do you think of it? Why, it is merely the shifting of affections on one side or the other, sometimes on both sides, lack of constancy of affection.

Isn't it beautiful, the constancy of devotion of some women, think of mother's constant devotion. You men who are here this afternoon, you women, too, think of the constancy of your mother in her devotion. I ask myself as to whether I have been worthy of the fetching up, so to speak. Do you think we are worthy of all the bother we have been in the world? What an awful crying little infant you and I were one day. What an awful nuisance every one of us was; yet what devotion and care we had from that mother, because of the constancy of her love for us. My mother was so good to me if I were as good as I could be, I could not be as good as her.

"She loves me when I'm good or bad,
She loves me when I'm glad or sad,"

as Riley sings.

Do you know it is my mother's birthday today and I confess I did not want to come to Bristol. I wanted to go down to my own home and visit my mother's grave, where I have spent every first day of May each year since the finger of God touched her and she sleeps; but maybe you can best minister to the dead by speaking to the living. Perhaps, it is always the best way to refresh the memory of the dead by saying something to the living.

What wonderful devotion of motherhood in this world! As you stand before that wonderful painting of the "Breaking of Home Ties," which attracted more attention at the World's Fair at Chicago than any other painting; that wonderful bit of art, it is not classic, but it is very plain. There stands the boy and his mother. I always think of Eugene Fields' verses:

"I saw in mother's face,
The love she could not tell me,
Love eternal as the skies,
Whatever fate befell me."

That beautiful devotion of motherhood. We can never be too thoughtful in regard to our mothers, never too appreciative for what they have done for us. You know that little toast that has a little touch of nonsense with it but a true ring at the close: "Here's to the happiest days of my life, spent in the arms of another man's wife—my mother." It is the happiest time, the blessed time of my life. Do you know we are often apt to look in the wrong place. Heroic souls are oftener hidden in the home, where there are good women who are oppressed with cares and labors and bearing uncomplainingly their burdens; crucified on invisible crosses; then along with these qualities, she is charitable. (Verse 20)

"What is noble, to inherit wealth, estate or proud degree?
There must be some other merit higher yet, than this for me.
Something greater far must enter into life's majestic span,
Fitted to create a centre: true nobility in man."

She is ministering to the needs of men, thus advancing not the cause of man, but the cause of God: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Women, I tell you this afternoon, pity and charity have their home in women's hearts. You take some of the great organizations of today. All the children's associations of Philadelphia. I know noble women who are laboring in the interest of that work, where little children are taken from the narrow alleys and dirty streets of the city and sent to the country for a time, where new life comes to them. One sunny spot in the whole year for some of those little tots. Take the society of The Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Take the great Door of Hope work in New York, at the head of which Mrs. Whitmer stands identified. It seems to me, figuratively speaking, she is acting after the fashion of Henry Ward Beecher. Walking out of his Plymouth Church for the last time, you will remember, he had been seated in his pulpit, for a time, when two little fellows wandered in from the street to listen to the music of the organ. He went to them and threw his great loving arms around them and planted a kiss on each little cheek, and walked out of the church for the last time. The greatness of all in the sense of littleness. It is a beautiful picture of a noble man, doing the work of love, picking up fallen manhood; living, ministering, doing for somebody else, living toward perfection, having the quality of charitable interest in others.

"She stretcheth out her hand to the poor; yea, she reacheth forth her hands to the needy." It seems to me she is nearer living up to the spirit of the church. "She worketh willingly with her hands;" nothing hesitating in the matter of doing the work of the day. Heaven help the man who has to live with a scolding wife, and heaven help the woman who has to live with a nagging man. Some such state is shown in the old story: A man and woman married. They had each been married before, and children had blessed each or cursed it; but they married and the third set of children came. One day the wife looked out in the yard and said: "Husband, just look at your children and my children fighting our children." It is kind of indicative of the feeling in some households. Going about duties in a nagging, dogging manner. You will find in the world energetic and enterprising women. I cannot take up all these qualities, all I can do must be suggestive; it cannot be exhaustive. You might say I did mention this thing and that thing; put them in your own discussion. "She is like the merchant's ships; she bringeth her food from afar." "She considereth a field and buyeth it;" she is good at accounts; there is business sight with her; she is not always in the parlor; no shirking of work on her part, evidently. You do not only see her sweeping into the parlor at eight o'clock in the evening, but sweeping out the kitchen at eight o'clock in the morning. Blessed are the fruits of her hands.

Blessed are the working hands of toil on the part of man or woman, and then she has wisdom; many people have more hindsight than foresight, vigorous in spirit and life. Then you remark another thing; this is a delicate subject for a fellow to touch upon, and I would like to step over it. She dresses wisely and sensibly, a covering of tapestry; she is her own dressmaker; that won't hold good in these days; her cloth is silk and purple; not that that is necessary and better than calico, but any woman that is worth the name of a woman dresses well and sensibly; it is a wise thing to do.

Look at that account of Esther when she went into the King's presence; she garbed in an acceptable way. Carelessness of dress may lead to a loss of power. I think of all that is best in dress as well as manner is that which attracts the least attention. Some people give more attention to clothes than to conduct; more to their hair than their heart; more to their cheeks than their character; their souls need manicuring once in a while.

I cannot understand how some women that are so afraid of mice can fall down and worship rats apparently—she won't give a concern about these things. It used to be that the hair was away up in the distance, now it is away back in the distance; but I suppose it is all right if you like that kind of a thing, but you are not troubled about that if you do not give more attention to your hair than to your heart, to your cheeks than to your character. Evidently the culture of character was a specialty with this woman. Did I not notice that remark that "she openeth her mouth with wisdom." That is a commendable characteristic, surely, the culture of character, and especially doesn't talk too much. Blessed is the man or woman that doesn't.

Someone has said we are given two eyes and two ears and one mouth and that we ought to see and hear twice as much as we talk. A gabbling man or woman does an awful lot of harm in a community. That word gabbling I use advisedly, it comes from the Greek word signifying to lie. A gabbling man or woman is never without something to say. She attaches ideas to some reports by a gossiping woman or gabbling man increasing them in extent. Someone has well suggested there are two different themes to talk about, one is people and personal things, the other is things and subjects. The noblest culture will permit us to talk about subjects rather than personal things. Heaven save us in this community or any other from the gossip or slander of a gabbling man or woman. There are too many things we might well talk about that are worth talking about, to debase ourselves and injure those round about us by this gossiping gabbling slander.

This woman is a good home-maker, you will notice that "She looketh well to the ways of her household, and eateth not the bread of idleness." That was a beautiful saying of Joseph Choate, when someone asked him who he would like to be if he wasn't Joseph Choate, he replied, "Mrs. Choate's second husband." Blessed is it where there is that feeling. You know I might add this, my opinion is this woman did not necessarily keep in the home all the time, but devoting the proper amount of time, not engaged in making her hair all the time. I have no patience with the man who is making a sweeping or washing machine out of a woman, for I am free to admit if I were a woman and be tried it I would turn into a thrashing machine.

Earth's noblest thing is woman perfected. Take this picture if you will as a souvenir this afternoon. It is customary in certain instances to give portraits as souvenirs, and I want to hand out this picture to every one of you to carry home with you in your heads and hearts. The gospel deals with hearts more than books, and especially is this true of this noble perfect woman. So should we live every hour, and die as naturally as dies the flower.

Let me make an appeal that we shall allow our womanhood and manhood to be the very best in the world, nobler because of the nobility of the life that we live. The first time I ever spoke in this church and from this pulpit I used the language of a woman as the basis of my theme, and I can do no better this afternoon at the close of these remarks, perhaps the last time I shall speak in Bristol for some time, than by quoting for our guidance and direction in the way of measuring up in this noblest thing than to ask you to be bounded by the language of a woman, the mother of our Lord, the blessed Mary. You will remember where Christ worked his first great miracle, noticing the perplexed condition of the servants when they seek her out and say that the wine is gone, she says, "whatsoever he saith unto you, do it." They are the words of a mother; they are the words of a woman. "Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it."

My friends, we can as we move along into the beautiful month of May, and through the rest of our lives, have a higher advice to help us to measure up to being men and women perfected, we can have no better direction than to obey what she said, "Whatsoever he saith unto you," and to you, to you, and to you, "do it." Shall we? Our lives may attain something of that perfection that is shown in this wonderful closing chapter of this marvelous book of Proverbs.

Lower Bensalem.

Miss Edith Alberger, of Eddington, was a recent visitor in Bristol.

We regret very much to hear of the severe illness of Mrs. Woren, of Cornwells.

Mrs. Schermerhorn, of Bridgewater, was quite recently visiting in Philadelphia.

Mr. Patton and family have moved from Philadelphia, to their summer home in Flushing.

Miss Jennie Cryer, of Philadelphia, was a week-end visitor at her grandmother's home in Bensalem.

Miss Myrtle Phillips, of Wissinoming, was visiting several friends in Bridgewater, quite recently.

James Price and family, of Philadelphia, were visiting their summer home in Bridgewater over Sunday.

The Misses Johnson were entertaining their brother, John Johnson, of Collegeville, on Saturday at their home in Bridgewater.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foster entertained Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, of Philadelphia, at their home in Eddington, over Sunday.

Mrs. Rowland and daughter, Miss Katherine Rowland, of Philadelphia, have moved to their country home in Croydon for the summer.

Miss Mina Kreamer, of Millerstown, Perry county, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lloyd Arentz, at her home in Bridgewater, for several days.

Miss Belle Scott, of Eddington, led the Christian Endeavor Society of the Eddington Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening. It being the first Sunday in the month, it was consecration Sunday.

On Saturday evening, May 7th, an entertainment will be given in the P. O. S. of A. Hall, at Cornwells, for the benefit of the Eddington Presbyterian Church. Talent will be there both from New York and Philadelphia.

A horse belonging to the Misses Johnson ran away on Saturday and broke the carriage together with several dozen of eggs and several quarts of milk. While Miss Johnson was delivering some milk, the horse became frightened at some boys playing ball.

The St. Francis School at Eddington had some very distinguished guests the past week, among whom were Vice President James S. Sherman, of Washington and Edward deV. Morrell, of Torresdale. Mr. Sherman made an address to the students and told the students that they were enjoying advantages at the school which would form a foundation for their future lives and advised them to apply themselves industriously to their work while yet young. The St. Francis band played selections and the distinguished party was whirled away in a motor car to General Morell's residence in Torresdale.

Penns Manor.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Greenlee.

John E. Brooks has been confined to the house with an attack of tonsilitis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Raub entertained friends from Trenton on Sunday last.

Schuyler C. Stokes is Christian Endeavor leader next Sunday evening. Topic, "The Christian Graces."

Frank Leedom was given a surprise party on Saturday evening last, in honor of his birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Ella S. Ketcham and daughter, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday with Mrs. James Stinson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Greenlee entertained Rev. and Mrs. John Girton, of Trenton, on Wednesday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Ivins and Mary Ivins spent Saturday and Sunday with Yardley Palmer and family, near Woodsville, N. J.

Miss Jane W. Seidensticker, of Atlantic City, is on a week's visit at her home here, before going to Ocean Grove for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Louderback, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Louderback, of Philadelphia, were Sunday guests of Daniel Louderback and family.

Notwithstanding the fact that our pastor, Rev. John Girton, received a message while in church last Sunday evening, calling him to the bedside of his brother, who was lying critically ill in Ewing, N. J., he preached a very touching and helpful sermon from Luke 15:2, to a very large audience. He has the sympathy of his many friends here.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Bristol People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Bristol residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

William A. Michener, 528 Swain Street, Bristol, Pa., says: "It affords me great pleasure to confirm the public statement I gave two years ago recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. Nothing has happened during the time that has since passed to alter my high opinion of this preparation. My two children were afflicted with a most annoying kidney weakness and steadily grew worse. There was no control over the kidney secretions and this proved that the kidneys were weak. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I decided to try them and secured a box at Erthal's Pharmacy. Their use brought relief in a remarkably short time and before long my children were restored to good health I am grateful to Doan's Kidney Pills for their good work in these two cases."

A CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Montgomery County Democrat Seeks Nomination to Oppose Wanger.

MARRIAGES SLUMP

High Cost of Living Clips Cupid's Wings. A Slick Forger Victimizes Doylestown Business Women.

Doylestown, May 4.

The past week has been a very quiet one at the county seat, there has been hardly a ripple on the sea of politics. The slate is made, the people will endorse it at the primaries and then there will be but little to do until the election. The ukase of Boss Grady has gone forth and, so far as outward appearances go, there is never a kick. The disappointed ones have called at headquarters and are chock full of promises for the future.

Up to the present time the Democracy has no candidates in the county except one in Bristol, Jacob M. Winder, who wants to go to State Senate. With the secret endorsement and plenty of work the Bucks County Liquor League could elect him, but they are not for him because it is not the Senator from Bucks county who will decide the fate of Local Option. That decision will be made by those highest in authority, the Big Bosses.

It looked a few days ago as though Irving P. Wanger would have no opposition for Congress, no Democrat had appeared who felt like taking chances against him but on Monday R. E. Difenderfer, of Ashbourne, visited the county seat to obtain signatures to his nominating petition. Mr. Difenderfer is a large man, physically and is a good "thinker." He proposes to make a thorough canvass of both counties and will, of course, take in Bucks county's one and only seaport. Now, if he can only secure the valuable service of Grundy and Pete his election will be assured and Wanger will have to go way back and sit down.

MUMPS AND MEASLES EPIDEMIC.

The county seat is passing through an epidemic of mumps and measles and in consequence the percentage of attendance at the public schools is very much reduced. By a regulation of the State Board of Health an unique arrangement called a "modified quarantine" is enforced, in Doylestown, that means that no one is confined to the house, the members of the household may pass in and out at all times, but children, who are not afflicted with the disease, may not go to school. This just suits young America and a fine time they are having of it, but they never fail to go to the school grounds just as school lets out at noon and in the afternoon and then the girls who are in "modified quarantine" fall on the necks of their less fortunate companions and walk home from school with them, their arms around each others waists, so that if there is any chance of communicating the disease, they are in a position to make a sure thing of it. The regulation is a ridiculous one in the face of it and as a matter of fact works more for harm than good.

DOYLESTOWN'S WINNING TEAM.

Doylestown baseball fans were throwing up their hats when the result of the game at Morrisville last Saturday was announced. Everyone expected the boys to put up a good game, but when the bulletin board announced the score, 9 to 2, the crowd went crazy and Doylestown did not have to use its star twirler either, for Siegler is better than ever this year. It looks now as though the pennant of the North Penn League will fly in the county seat next season. Manager William F. Kelly deserves great credit for the team that he alone picked out and welded together, and it is a fine one, finer and better than we have ever had before.

HUSBAND HALED INTO COURT.

Samuel F. Robbins, whose wife, son and daughter are residents of the county seat, was haled into court on Monday, charged by his wife with surety. Robbins and his wife had their troubles aired in court about three years ago, in consequence of which they separated. About three weeks ago Robbins came to Doylestown, as he alleges, to bring his wife a birthday present and if possible, to adjust their differences. As an inducement to his wife to go back and live with him he provided himself with quite a jag and then went in search of her. He found her at the home of her daughter, but she evaded him and went to the home of a friend. His daughter testified that Robbins threatened to kill both his wife and himself. Mrs. Robbins declared that she was afraid of him and believed that he would do her serious bodily harm if opportunity offered. He was held under a bond of two hundred dollars to keep the peace.

SLUMP IN WEDDINGS.

Marriages always interest everybody, but the month of April, 1910, was not a marrying month. Only twenty-four couples sought the aid of the fair deputy in the Clerk of the Orphans Court office, to start them on their journey through life. Four widows sought the state of double blessedness for a second time, while but two widowers, both near the alloted time, three score years and ten, tried their luck again in the lottery of marriage.

AS TO AGES.

The youngest brides, four of them, had arrived at the mature age of eighteen, and one married the youngest groom, aged 19. Barring the two couples, one 69 and 68 and the other 66 and 50, the average age of the brides and grooms was very close together, much closer than it has been for over a year. The brides' average was a trifle over twenty-two and three quarters years and the grooms' exactly twenty-three and one-half. One reason for this was that five brides were older than their husbands, one of them as many as ten years older, a widow of course.

UP COUNTY LEADS.

The upper end of the county leads, having just half of the entire number granted, twelve. The middle has seven and the lower five. Of the boroughs Quakertown had two and Doylestown, Bristol, Silverdale, Yardley, Newtown, Sellersville, Ivyland, Perkasie and Attleboro each had one. Of the brides twelve were housekeepers, five were in the cigar making business three had no occupations, two were dressmakers with one each a stenographer and broom-maker. Of the men seven were farmers, three each clerks and laborers, two molders, two cigarmakers, with printers, carpenters, teamsters, weavers and bakers each one. All were Bucks countians except one bride from Souderton.

REASONS FOR DECREASE.

The high cost of living is the reason for there being so few, although Easter coming in March had something to do with it. Another reason that holds back the young people is that they are not making enough to live upon in the way they would like to live. In the hard times of 1908 forty-five couples secured the coveted license in April. Last year fifty-four were made happy and the drop of thirty—from fifty-four to twenty-four—should be an object lesson to our legislators in Congress and is a very strong argument in favor of a tariff that will enable our young people to get married and live. As it is, when they marry now they simply survive, that's all. This month, May, may not be much better, but let us hope for increased returns in the month of roses, June.

A SLICK FORGER.

A forger, probably the same fellow who some time ago, victimized Constable A. R. Atkinson, of the county seat, with a bogus check on the firm of Lehman's Sons, meat dealers, made a successful excursion through this section last Saturday, scooping in during the day an amount at least equal to as much salary as he could earn in a week. The facts were suppressed for several days with the hope that the forger could be captured, but he was entirely too slick for the officers. He apparently knew his ground well, escaping without leaving a clue to his whereabouts.

GOT $15 AT JENKINTOWN.

He first appeared at Jenkintown on Saturday morning, where the Abington police afterward learned, the man had tried to get checks cashed in several places. In one instance, it is said, that he succeeded in getting away with nearly $15. The police have a good description of the man, who is believed to be the same chap who swindled Jenkintown merchants some months ago.

DID NOT CONNECT AT HATBORO.

Coming on up the trolley line after leaving Jenkintown he stopped at Hatboro, but in the afternoon he went to Corson's restaurant in Willow Grove and told Mrs. Corson that he had a gang of men at work in Willow Grove Park. He said further that he had forgotten his check book and asked her if she had any checks on the Jenkintown Trust Company. Mrs. Corson gave the stranger several blank checks from her husband's check book. The stranger sat at a table in the restaurant and filled out one or more of them.

Later the man appeared at Rothwell's drug store, and made a trifling purchase, and tendered a check, which had what purported to be Mr. Corson's signature attached. Mr. Rothwell thought that the signature did not look right, so refused to give the man his purchase or the difference in cash. The stranger said his name was C. Bell and that he was related to a Dr. Graham, of Hatboro, and that he would go to McAvoy's hotel, where he was known and secure the cash and return. But he never came back.

MRS. WALTON VICTIMIZED.

Instead he came on by trolley to Doylestown, where in the evening he found another victim. Entering the store of Mrs. S. A. Walton, on South Main street, about 7 o'clock, he selected about 60 cents worth of goods from her china stock and asked the clerk to cash a check for $10.50 in payment. The clerk took the check to Mrs. Walton, who saw that the paper appeared to be drawn by Sheriff H. S. Beidler to the order of "C. Bell," and was dated April 23. Without hesitancy Mrs. Walton handed over $10 to the man who paid her 10 cents to make it "even money." C. Bell said he would leave the dishes for a little while and return for them. But the dishes are still there and so is the bogus check for $10.50.

The last exhibition of moving pictures at the King Library was pronounced as being "by far the most satisfactory" of any that has yet been given. Miss Mabel Towle was another of our young vocalists whose voice contributed to the musical part of the programme.

"There will be a meeting of the Andalusia Branch of the Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild on Wednesday, May 11th, at 2.30 p. m., at King Library. A plant market will be held from three to five o'clock. Plants will be received at the King Library from 9.30 till 11 a. m. Afternoon tea will be served.

The committee on the proposed club house, or parish building, as it is called by some, met at Charles Biddle's on Monday evening. We hope that they not only "reported progress," but took action in looking to speedy realization of the long expressed wishes of our community. We have not been able to see any of the committee to get definite information.

The anxiety with which we noted the illness of Miss Bertha Gano last week, has had its sad realization. She died in the Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia, on Friday morning last, after an operation for appendicitis, performed soon after her reaching the institution on Monday. Her funeral was held at her Andalusia home on Monday and was largely attended. The burial was at All Saints churchyard, Torresdale. Miss Gano was a quiet, steadfast, gentle girl, very much esteemed by those who knew her and winning their affectionate regard. She was devoted to her Sunday school class of little girls and was notably efficient in their instruction. They were present at her funeral and sent gifts of flowers as "her class." The Sunday school, too as a whole, sent flowers and at the service those who could be present, sang very sweetly some favorite hymns. Miss Gano's death touched the heart of many in the community very deeply and called out the sincere sympathy of our people for her family, in their great loss.

The commission appointed to examine the Leaning Tower of Pisa has reported that it thinks its foundations need strengthening. A spring exists under the tower, the water of which is raised by steam pumps for the use of a local factory. As the bed of the spring is emptied it is feared a subsidence of the ground on which the campanile stands will follow.

Several of our people attended services last Sunday at the Temple of the First Association of Spiritualists, 12th and Thompson streets, Philadelphia, where special sessions were held in commemoration of the 62nd anniversary of so-called modern spiritualism, which were in every way a grand success, with large audiences to thoroughly enjoy the entire programme. At the morning and evening sessions fine discourses were delivered by the regular speaker, Rev. G. Tabor Thompson while the afternoon was given over entirely to Progressive Lyceum work. Fine music and singing were marked features of the day and the temple was profusely decorated with palms and choice fragrant flowers. Previous to his discussion the speaker announced that after years of struggle with a mortgage against the temple the balance of $4000 had during the past year been raised and the building would soon be entirely cleared of debt. Also $600 had been paid for opera chairs and other ways to beautify the place, beside some $2000 for running expenses. All of which is a good showing financially.

THE MEN'S MEETINGS.

One of the most remarkable events, or rather series of events, that have taken place in the history of Bristol is the Sunday afternoon meetings for men which have closed for the season at the First Baptist Church.

When it is taken into consideration that Bristol has been notorious for the fact that the men of the town do not go to the protestant churches, the record established at the men's meetings is truly marvelous.

The fourth year of these meetings has just closed and during the season 5,280 attended those meetings, an average of 211 at a meeting, and a gain of 342 over the total number of the previous year.

This splendid result in a commendable field of labor was accomplished by the zeal and the earnestness and the self-sacrificing spirit of the leader, Rev. W T. Johnston, who gave his best endeavors to get the best speakers to address these meetings and to his credit may it be said, that he got some of the most talented men in the country.

By these meetings Mr Johnston has not had the view of building up a church so much as building up a people. All through all the meetings the one theme pervaded, an appeal to men to live righteous lives, to develop a brotherhood of man to believe in the task of lifting up his neighbor. All the appeals from the pulpit have been for men to live better and christian lives. These simple gospel themes have drawn men by the hundreds to Mr Johnston's church, they have gone there Sunday after Sunday, hundreds of them; men who heretofore have spent their Sundays in idle pursuits and it must be acknowledged that these meetings have had beneficent results, as they have been the marvel of everyone who has been here to address this church full of men.

Mr Johnston cannot help feeling gratified that his devotion to the men's cause has been rewarded. He has wrought a good work.

Wilbur F. Wakeman, head of the American Protective Tariff League, a tariff graft organization, is greatly disturbed over the report that the President and the regulars in Congress have decided to endow the tariff board with some live functions. Wakeman is alarmed lest there should be some genuine downward revision and is bombarding Senators and Representatives with strenuous protests against adding a single word to the present tariff law. Rarely have Wakeman's letters been more hysterical than they are now. He says, "It is incredible and preposterous" that the standpatters are "going to surrender their convictions and their principles." Wakeman says that the business of the country is not calling for more tariff agitation, but neglects to say anything about the consumers. He takes the tariff board seriously to task and charges it with having "flagrantly violated the law." He charges a conspiracy to start a propaganda "looking to the entire removal of the tariff on wool." He talks most disrespectfully of the members of the board, protesting against leaving the policy of protection to the tender mercies of "Professor Emery, Jimmie Reynolds and Beef Trust Sanders."

After reading of the great scandal in political circles, the looting of financial institutions, bribery and corruption in cities, legislatures and in the business world, we cannot help but feel that the great need of this day is more good men. We need men who are honest, sound from center to circumference, true to the heart's core; men who will condemn wrong in friend or foe, in themselves as well as others; men whose consciences are steady as the needle to the pole; men who stand for the right if the heavens totter and the earth falls, men who never lag nor flinch, men that have courage without shouting; men in whom the currents of everlasting life run still, deep and strong; men who do not cry or spoil their voices to be heard on the streets but who will not falter or be discouraged, till judgment be set on earth; men who will not lie, men who are not too lazy to work nor too proud to be poor; men who have the pluck to fight the crowd for the crowd's own good.

"Carlo," the young poet, who has been pardoned after serving four years in the penitentiary in Wisconsin, was sentenced to a ten-year term for stealing $24 while in a starving condition. Snyder, Shumaker, Sanderson and Mathues, who were convicted of looting the "House of a Thousand Scandals," at Harrisburg, of millions, got the extreme punishment of a sentence to TWO years in the penitentiary. This should be a warning to young men, that if they are going to steal, be sure and steal millions, the penalty is not near so severe. We know a Bristol fellow who broke into a box car and was sentenced to a dozen or more years behind the bars.

"The tariff is coming up again and business is surely going to the dogs"—thus are old fears finding familiar voice. Fellows like Eugene Foss of course know nothing about business or its needs. Only the old hunkers who have for years worshipped blindly at the shrine of high tariff as the sole author and conservator of the country's industrial prosperity are competent to talk about this subject. Nevertheless, this new tariff reform movement is to be more largely a movement of business men than any other the country ever had, for reasons that ought to be obvious and which we need not now go into.

The regulars in Congress complain that President Taft fiddles while Rome is burning. They claim that administration measures, in which the President should be vitally interested, seem to command none of Mr. Taft's serious attention. The chief executive is accused of junketing around the country on pleasure trips while the railroad bill and other measures of his are in grave danger of defeat. The President is accused of caring more for travel, base ball games and dinners than for the serious affairs of his office.

Champ Clark, the minority leader in the House of Representatives, is quoted as saying that Senator Aldrich was right when the latter stated that he could run the government at an annual saving of $300,000,000. The Missouri Congressman declared, "I know that this government could be run just as well as it is today if one-third of all the Federal officials in the United States were decapitated this minute and turned out among the people to go to work again."

The Gazette, with a deep sense of appreciation, acknowledges the vote of approval extended this newspaper by 350 women, who attended the women's meeting at the Bristol Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon. This action on the part of that large audience, aside from being so entirely unexpected, was one that goes a long way toward making the work of endeavoring to publish a clean, reliable newspaper a real pleasure. Ladies, we thank you.

The carded wool manufacturers have not been personally heard from in some time. Politically, however, they are being heard from with large emphasis. Their campaign against the iniquitous woolen schedule as doctored up to suit William Whitman and a select class of worsted manufacturers has not been without effect in the present popular uprising against fraudulent tariff reform; and it has also played a part in forwarding the McCall campaign contribution publicity bill. The carded wool men have charged that the western wool growers and eastern worsted interests bought exemption of the wool and woolen schedule from any revision by contributing handsomely to the Republican cause in 1908 through the Republican congressional committee and their charge still remains undisposed of.

One of those amazing feats of skill which only occur in chess took place in Philadelphia, recently, when Emanuel Lasker, the champion of the world, won 18 out of 20 games against as many players, and brought one other game to a draw. This display in a simultaneous contest has been equaled by Lasker before, and had been equaled by Steinitz (from whom Lasker won the championship) and surpassed by Morphy. With the exception of Morphy, however, Dr. Lasker has probably never had a superior. The player who won from Lasker in this contest was Stasch Mlotkowski, who is state champion of Pennsylvania and evidently a genius. Dr. Lasker is Jewish, calm, self-centered and deliberate—something of a philosopher aside from his chess, and has contributed something to the literature of the game.

The New York Evening Post well sums up the regret with which the sanest observers of American politics view the retirement of Governor Hughes to the supreme court of the United States when it says: "The strongest source for reform strongest because of wise radicalism allied with a judicial temperament—is now to go out of our workaday political life." And it was in the arena that "Charles the Baptist" was sorely needed. He has the power of leadership through constructive statesmanship as no other Republican of his time promises to exhibit it. His speeches have been an educative force, always soundly considered, as to matter, and full of power even when one might disagree with some of his conclusions. He never comes to a public occasion unprepared to give of the best that is in him, and so is always worth listening to. Public respect has come to him in so universal measure that William J. Bryan's criticism of Governor Hughes' qualifications for the United States supreme court will strike the people unpleasantly.

The Injustice in Wool.

Philadelphia Record

Charles H Harding, a worsted spinner of this city, has the same sort of elastic views upon the tariff that William Wood of the Woolen Trust, and William Whitman have. The views of all of them show that while protection is described as a great economic system it is really merely a game of grab. Whitman did not like the tariff of 1883, and maintained a vigorous agitation for its change. He likes the tariff of 1909, and complains that efforts to change it would unsettle business. Wood was in favor of ad valorem duties when the Dingley tariff was under discussion and declared he would rather have the Wilson tariff than such a schedule as the Ohio sheepmasters were insisting on, and which was finally incorporated in the bill. Since then his interests have gone into worsted, and he can't see why anybody should find fault with the present tariff.

Mr Harding has been praising the present tariff and declaring the carded wool manufacturers have no ground for their complaints. And yet twelve years ago, in an address before the Warp and Weft Club of the Philadelphia Textile School, he said:

"The experience of this country has been under its 11 to wool duties that there is never imported any considerable quality of fine wool that shrinks over 60 per cent. When you import a hundred pounds of fine greasy wool and get out of it only forty pounds of clean wool, the 11 cents a pound becomes a very serious matter."

But now Mr Harding describes as a falsehood "the charge of discrimination by means of a specific duty amounting, the complainants claim, to prohibition in their particular case."

One of the largest clips of Adelaide wool was imported into the United States for carded woolen goods when the Wilson tariff made wool free. It cannot be imported now, because it shrinks 80 per cent, and more. The duty on this wool would come to 27½ cents per scoured pound, while the worsted men can import Australian and South American cross-bred combing wool, shrinking 30 cents a pound at a duty equivalent to 15 5-7 cents. Cape wool shrinks 60 to 80 per cent., and Americans cannot afford to import it.

Mr. Harding, who pointed out the injustice of specific duties on wool in 1898, and denies any injustice in 1910, objected last year to ad valorem duties on the ground that wools might be undervalued 2 or 3 per cent. To guard against that he would have specific duties that run up to 100 and 200 per cent. on some varieties of wool that he doesn't use. But S. N. D. North, a Protectionist and a wool expert, told the Dingley committee that the specific duties were objectionable, because they compelled the American purchaser of foreign wool "to pay a tax upon every pound of dirt and grease which it contains," and as to the danger of under valuation he said:

"I do not believe there is a commodity sold in the world of any description the market value of which is more accurately, publicly and universally known than that of wool. It is like cotton, wheat and other staple products in that respect. All the wools of the world, practically which reach the public market are sold at auction."

There is said to be honor among thieves, but the wool manufacturers are not content with combining with the ranch owners against the consumers, but the combed wool manufacturers even conspire with Senators to get the better of their colleagues, the carded wool manufacturers.

The Falling Apart of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft

The very title of this article—by Alfred Henry Lewis in the May Human Life—prepares the reader for a story of uncommon interest. Mr Lewis goes straight to the heart of things, to the first meeting of these two men so different in disposition and make-up and traces therefrom the influences that have shaped the public careers and acts of each in relation to his story.

Like the skilful dramatists the writer never loses sight of his main theme—the falling apart of Mr Roosevelt and Mr. Taft—although around it he weaves the necessary details. These digressions are necessary to introduce the other characters, all of whom play important parts in the drama. For instance, he discloses the crafty aims of a Roosevelt cabineteer, who is styled the "American Richelieu"—tells who is on the White House backstairs—and Mr. Taft's Aldrich-corporation preference and other matters are puzzles not so difficult of solution.

When Congress convened in December, 1908, and Mr Roosevelt got ready for his last battle—then it was strange matters came to pass. Happenings unknown to the outside public—helped on by crafty foes—led up to the climax that forms the subject of this article. Mr. Lewis turns the light of publicity on some of these events for the first time. Mr Roosevelt, with a heart full of bitterness, battened down the hatches over the fires aboil inside, till the wild, wild wastes of Africa should somewhat have cooled them, if that were possible.

Summing up the past, and from it shrewdly casting a prophetic eye on 1912, the author's observations on certain happenings peculiarly calculated to bring Mr. Roosevlet again into the running are dynamic with significance.

LITTLE TARIFF TALKS.

THAT "CONSUMPTION VALUE."

Bristol, May 1.

To the Editor.—President Taft in a recent speech is quoted as saying: "In the new tariff there were 654 decreases, 220 increases and 1,150 items of the dutiable list unchanged. These increases are said to be on articles which have a consumptive value of 5 billion dollars, while increases are on those having a consumptive value of 1 billion dollars. "Therefore, I repeat," he says "that this was a downward revision." Grant the last statement is true, then I want to inquire what constitutes these 654 articles on which the tariff was decreased, and what part of that 5 billion dollars worth was on articles used and consumed altogether by the great trusts and corporations, who alone will be benefitted by the reduction. A. P. B.

It would be a long task to procure complete information on these general questions. But enough information is available, and from government statistics, to show that the figures used by the President, and which he doubtless procured from the estimates made by the finance committee of the Senate—the committee chiefly responsible for the new Tariff Law—are utterly misleading as he presented them.

First of all this estimate is far from complete. For example, it does not include any figures on the notorious wool schedule, nor does it embody the consumption value of the steel products on which the duty was raised. When it is remembered that the duty was advanced on structural steel it may be guessed that there was some purpose in omitting estimates on the consumption value of the steel products on which duties were increased.

However, the estimates, so far as made and as used by the defenders of the tariff, are most deceptive. It is claimed, for instance, that the duties have been reduced on metals and manufactures having a consumption value of nearly 1¼ billion, but the duties were so high on nearly all the items of this schedule that the reductions could be made while at the same time the tariff would still remain practically prohibitive.

The consumption value of agricultural products on which duties were slightly reduced is given as 483 millions, but the tariff never has affected the prices of agricultural products in the least, simply because there is a foreign demand for all the surplus we can raise. It is a very easy thing to reduce a tariff that has no effect and has been placed merely as a sop to such farmers as may be simple minded enough to think it means something to them.

In that gross consumption value of articles on which the duties were lowered is an item of 567 millions belonging to the sugar schedule in which the reduction was about one-third of 1 per cent. Think of calling that a reduction.

And in all the reductions it must be remembered that they were made largely on overprotected articles and only to such an extent as still to leave the duties substantially prohibitive. For this reason comparatively few of the reductions effect the cost of living. On the other hand, the increases in duties were made where there was some real competition, with the result that nearly every increase directly affects the cost of the articles advanced. In the cotton schedule, for example, the consumption value of articles on which the duty was advanced aggregates 462 millions, and every advance counts in the cost of cottons.

Furthermore let it not be overlooked that of the items on the dutiable list more than half were untouched in a revision that the country was promised would be general. No such list of exemptions could have been possible if Congress had carried out the promise of the Republican platform to make the basis of revision the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad.

Letter to Benjamin J. Taylor.

Bristol, Pa.

Dear Sir: A bank messenger lost a small coin. He set his bag down and looked for it. Found it, but somebody else had run-off with his bag.

A man who is going to paint had better look out for his gallons. Devoe is the least-gallons paint.

It's gallons that cost, it isn't the price of a gallon. With one paint, 10 gallons is plenty, another, 11 or 12 or 13 and so on to 22 gallons, and every gallon has to be paid for and painted —$2 to $4 a day for painting paint stuffed-out with some sort of whitewash. The less the price a gallon, the more the gallons.

Bank messengers better look out for their bags and not stop to hunt for small coin, and property-owners better look out for the gallons that make the expense, and not for the price which has nothing to do with it.

Yours truly
F W DEVOE & CO

IN AND AROUND THE COUNTY.

County Commissioners at their meeting on Friday made an appropriation of $50 to each of the Grand Army Posts of the county to defray the Memorial Day expenses.

Higgins Brothers had a very large sale at Newtown on Saturday. Twenty-two head of western horses were sold at an average of $220.60. The highest priced horse was $230.

Fishermen of the Malta fishery at New Hope had a big week of it. Thirty-two hundred shad were caught and the men cleared $142 apiece. It was the biggest season for the Malta fishery for nine years.

Hon. Harman Yerkes, Mrs. Yerkes and Miss Helen Buckman, of Doylestown, sailed for Europe from New York on Wednesday on the steamer Adriatic, of the White Star Line, one of the finest of the "ocean greyhounds."

E. L. Loux, State orchard inspector, starts for Pittsburg next Monday to do some tree work in the western part of the State. He will probably be gone for several weeks, but all letters addressed to Souderton will reach him.

The post office at Lansdale was moved on Saturday evening from its old location on Main street to its temporary quarters on Susquehanna avenue, where it will remain during the erection of the new banking house and post office combined.

The William E. Case public school at Morrisville was presented with an American flag, a Bible and pedestal, last Friday evening, by the combined Councils of the Jr. O. U. A. M., of Trenton. The orator of the evening was Hon. Edward L. Katzenbach, of Trenton. His address was full of eloquence and was of a patriotic nature.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. T. Ferry and Miss Ella Reynolds, of Morrisville, left last Thursday for Indianapolis, Ind., where the former will engage in business. The Rev. Mr. Ferry resigned as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Morrisville, a few weeks ago, after serving that church as pastor for three years, having assumed charge at his graduation from Princeton Theological Seminary.

Negroes were not permitted to ride in Philadelphia street cars prior to 1865. In that year one car in every four was set aside for colored people by the Fifth and Sixth streets lines.

ANGUS'---Snowflake---ANGUS'

On Saturday, May 7th, 1910

our Snowflake season will open. Made from pure, whole milk enriched with cream, pure fruits and the best sugar. That's ours. Try it---if you have not tasted ice cream less rich than our flake, don't pay for it. Is that fair? We stored our own ice. We have farmer's milk at first cost for your benefit, for our benefit. You profit by improved quality; we profit by increased sales. Our wagon will be on the streets from now on. We want a few more dealers to handle our goods. It will pay you to handle Angus' Pure Snowflake. Try it---if it is not the best you ever tasted, don't buy it. Next week we'll tell you something about "ice cream."

ARTESIAN ICE CO.'S BIG ENTERPRISE

Most Complete Plant in the Country. To Make Ice Cream and Snowflake on Large Scale and Pasteurize Milk. To Open Coal Yards.

The new plant of the Artesian Ice Company is nearly completed and about ready to commence the manufacture of artificial ice. Fires were lighted in the huge boilers yesterday and the engines, pumps, piping and machinery are now being tested.

A representative of the Gazette on Wednesday was courteously conducted throughout the plant by President E. W. Minster, of the company, and every detail of the new manufacturing enterprise was thoroughly explained. There is no doubt resting in the writer's mind but that the plant is one of the most complete and practical in the United States. No money has been spared on the erection of the building nor in the selection of the machinery and equipment. The very latest models in engines, boilers, machinery and labor-saving devices have been purchased and the latest ideas employed in construction.

The plant will have an ice-making capacity of fifty tons per day, but ice making, while the principal business of the company, will not be the only product. President Minster conducted the scribe to the section of the plant where ice cream will be manufactured on an extensive scale at a fraction of the cost incurred by ordinary manufacturers. The same brine used to make the ice is turned to the ice cream making machines. As soon as the cream is made it is put into the cold storage vaults which will maintain a temperature of ten degrees above zero. No ice is used to freeze or keep the cream, the cold storage houses, and the cream making machines all getting their freezing qualities from the brine used in making ice.

Another branch of the business will be the pasteurizing of milk, which will be done on an extensive scale under the direction of a college instructor who has been engaged at a high salary to take charge of that branch of the business. The necessary devices for sterilizing the milk bottles have also been purchased. After the milk is pasteurized it is automatically filled into sterilized bottles. Snow flake, or "cream flake" as it will be called, will also be manufactured on an extensive scale.

Another branch of the business which will be added this fall or next spring, according to President Minster, will be the erection of coal wharves along the canal front and big overhead coal shutes will be built, and the coal business will be inaugurated on a large scale, and also building materials, lime, cement, etc., may be added as a side line.

Mr. Minster says he has unlimited capital behind him and he is going to do the thing right.

The Proposed Station.

Editor Gazette:—To place the new railroad passenger station at Beaver Dam Road and Washington street which Grundy now claims is clinched, will in the future, prove to be an unpardonable error to Bristol. The Beaver Dam Road advocates claim that location to be the geographical centre of Bristol. This is not correct. Geographically the centre of Bristol is Race street, as formerly advocated by the late B. F. Gilkeson.

Bath street is the only logical place for a depot in Bristol. Illuminated with arc and incandescent lights, thickly populated to railroad line and with trolley service thereon and advocated by 123 business men in a petition to President James McCrea, it is the ideal location. The petition was opposed by eight mill owners, led by Mr. Grundy. Only two of these firms reside in our town, yet these eight men attempt to dictate where our wives and daughters shall embark after night from trains.

Bristol welcomes all manufacturers to our town. They are an important factor and we encourage them in many ways, by omitting their taxes for ten years, building good streets in their midst, etc. Yet the 123 business men who petitioned the railroad for Bath street are likewise an important factor, residing here and assisting to make the town what it is today.

They say Beaver Dam Road is to be made a boulevard, widened, lit with arc lights, etc. Who keeps this up? The taxpayers. Think of the east side people crossing a network of tracks where drilling engines will be constantly at work, then passing through the mill district, crossing the canal by draw bridges, which are open much of the time, thereby impeding traffic. You miss your train, only allowing one or two extra minutes. Then will the public see the unpardonable mistake of Mr. Grundy and the railroad company. Overhead bridges were abandoned at Bristol station years ago as being impractical.

One of these mill owners was honest enough to say the matter of the station was a purely selfish one on his part, as all he wanted was to have the depot as near his mill as possible.

At the hearing by railroad officials, Mr. Abercrombie said there would be more drilling after the passenger tracks were removed than at present and that they would not allow any trolley to cross at grades. At Bath and Mill streets permisson to cross by trolley is given, only one freight track to remain there and practically no drilling thereon. Both trolley companies advocated Bath street, saying they would be glad to loop the town from Bath street, making it easy of access to all parts of Bristol.

Look at the country people who now leave their teams at the Closson House and Fine's hotel to take trains. Where are there any such accommodations at Beaver Road? The First ward and Third ward are almost a unit for Bath street. The First ward, I am told, pays over a third of the borough taxes, say nothing about the Third and half of the Fourth ward, which also advocates Bath street. Yet all this is to be ignored to please one politician.

The medium class people should be considered, as they do not have $5000 automobiles to convey them to a depot located in an inaccessable district, when a nickel would convey all to Bath street who did not care to walk.

Death of Gertrude Fenimore Lycett.

Mrs. Gertrude Fenimore Lycett, wife of Herbert J. Lycett and daughter of the late Francis Fenimore, formerly of Bristol, died at her home in Republic, Washington, April 29. The remains were shipped from the far western mining town and the funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon, May 7, at five o'clock, at the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr. The deceased, as a young lady, was well known in Bristol, having resided here for a number of years with her parents, both of whom are now deceased. She was of a kind and sweet disposition and had a host of friends who are deeply grieved at her untimely death. She was married a few years ago to Mr. Lycett, a mining engineer, and went to Republic, away up near the British Columbia line to seek fame and fortune. She is survived by one sister and brother, Miss Emily Fenimore and Jason Fenimore.

Entertainments at Cornwells.

A concert for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Eddington Presbyterian Church will be given tomorrow evening, May 7th, in P. O. S. of A. hall, Cornwells, at eight o'clock. A splendid programme has been arranged. Tickets, 25 cents.

Complete arrangements have been made toward making a great success of the euchre and promenade to be held this evening in the Cornwells hall for the benefit of St. Charles Church. Fifty valuable prizes will be awarded, among them being a fine Waltham gold watch and beautiful cut glass dishes. Assignments to tables at 8.30 p. m. An enlarged orchestra will be in attendance. Cards of admission, 50 cents.

Bristol Bank Dividend.

The board of directors of the Farmers National Bank of Bucks County, on Tuesday declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 8 per cent. and added $5,000 to the surplus fund, making that fund $210,000.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. N. Cannon, 50 Pennington street, Newark, N. J., announces the engagement of her daughter, Madeline M. Cannon, to George P. Gillingham, of 7 Hillside avenue, Newark. Both were formerly of Bristol.

To Repair Otter Street.

The Street committee of Bristol Council is making preparations to make the long needed repairs to Otter street. The Trenton, Bristol and Philadelphia Trolley Company proposes to renew its road-bed and pave between the rails and two feet outside the rails, while the borough will resurface the remaining portions of the street. The property owners will be required to fix up their gutters and curbs.

To Extend Buckley Street.

Arrangements have been completed by officials of the borough and interested property owners to extend Buckley street from its present terminus at the Beaver Dam road to Washington street. The proposed extension will be of great service especially in view of the new embankment of the elevated Pennsylvania railroad line, opening up a line of travel from the Second and Fifth wards to the Third and Fourth wards.

Sectional Meeting in Bristol.

Lower Bucks Clinical Society will meet in Dr. Pursell's office, Bristol, on Thursday, May 19th, at 2.30 p. m. Programme: "Active and Passive Congestion of Kidney," Dr. Wareham. "Acute Parenchymatous Nephritis," Dr. Fleckenstine; "Chronic Parenchymatous Nephritis," Dr. Basset. "Acute Interstitial Nephritis," Dr. Ridge; "Chronic Interstitial Nephritis," Dr. Abbott; "Amyloid Kidney," Dr. Osborne.

Crescents to Open Season.

Saturday the Crescents will open the season with the Harlan F. C., of Frankford, on the Corson street grounds. The Crescents have been practicing and are in fine shape. McIlvain and McNichol, the star battery, will be on hand and the rooters can expect some classy work from this pair. The other players are equally fast and a great game may be expected. The game is called for 3.30 p. m. Come and root for your home team.

Upset in the River.

Harry J. Arnold, Jr., and Miss Esther Daniels had a narrow escape from drowning last Saturday afternoon, and as it was, both got a ducking in the cold water of the Delaware river. As the young couple were lazily paddling along in a canoe, opposite the steamboat wharf, one of the steamers gave a sudden blast of the whistle which startled Miss Daniels and caused her to make a movement which turned over the frail craft, precipitating both into the water. Both displayed remarkable calmness, however, and got hold of the upturned canoe and waited until a rescue party arrived in a row boat, and took them ashore with clothes dripping and teeth chattering.

Junior C. E. Entertainment.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Bristol Presbyterian Church, under the direction of Mrs. Annie Groom gave an interesting entertainment on Saturday evening before a large audience. The principal feature of the programme was a cantata entitled, "Mother Merry Heart."

The programme was as follows:

Death in Long-lived Family.

Mrs. Catharine L. Howell, widow of the late Amos Howell and daughter of the late Daniel and Elizabeth LaRue, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Brown, near Emilie, East Bristol township, on Sunday morning. Death was due to cerebral apoplexy. The deceased was in her 90th year. The funeral, which took place on Wednesday was largely attended. Interment at the Emilie grave yard.

Mrs. Howell belonged to a family that was exceptionally noted for its longevity, most of them living to be ninety years or over. Her parents, Daniel and Elizabeth (Vandegrift) LaRue, died at the ages of 70 and 94 years respectively.

The eleven children of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel LaRue all reached the age of four score years and over, as follows: Sarah Biles, died in Baltimore, over 90; William died in New Jersey, over 90 John died on his farm near Emilie, over 90; Mary Burton, near Tullytown, 87; Moses, at his home in Philadelphia, 90; Caroline English, in Trenton, over 90. Elizabeth Hellings, near Edgely, 94; Susan Hellings, now living in Bristol, 92, and Catharine Howell, just deceased, in 90th year.

C. Wesley Milnor Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Milnor entertained a number of their friends at their residence on Mulberry street, Bristol, on Saturday evening, April 23rd. The event was in honor of Mr. Milnor's seventieth birthday anniversary. The evening was very pleasantly spent in playing different games and social intercourse.

Mr. Milnor has been employed in the baggage department of the Pennsylvania railroad for forty-one years, having entered the service on June 14th, 1869. His genial disposition and willingness to work soon won for him the good will of his employers and for several years before his retirement last Saturday he held the responsible position as cashier in the baggage department at Broad Street Station.

It is very interesting to hear Mr. Milnor relate some of his experiences, which happened while he has been on duty, during the Centennial, Bi-Centennial and other large demonstrations which have been held in Philadelphia. He kept faithfully at his post and during all those years he has never been called before to face his superior officers on any complaint, big or little, a record any man should feed proud of.

A pretty little incident took place in his office just before he left for his home last Saturday afternoon. All the men in his department, headed by John L. Johnson, came in and in a neat little speech by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Milnor was presented with a handsome solid gold Masonic emblem and watch chain. Although overcome with emotion Mr. Milnor responded in his usual happy manner, thanking the men for their beautiful gift and their kind remembrance.

At a very late hour Saturday evening the guests sat down to a table at his home, filled with everything that is good for the inner man to have. After wishing their host many happy returns of the day, all returned to their homes, voting it one of the most pleasant evenings.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Milnor, Alvin Milnor, Mr. and Mrs. Headley King, Edward Barton, Miss Laura Barton, Charles Tarpey, Mrs. S. Tolin, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Gehrett, Mr. and Mrs. George Callanan, Mr. and Mrs. George Vanzant, Miss Mary Lippincott, Miss Sara M. Hawke, Mrs. Jennie Worthington, Mrs. Rilla Hunter, J. W. Sipler, James Guy and Frank Horn.

ROLLING MILL IN RECEIVERS' HANDS

The Bristol Iron & Steel Company is Involved with the Steel Products Co.

Judge Lanning, in the United States Circuit Court, on Monday appointed W. Vernon Phillips and Jacob M. Shenk, receivers of the Iron and Steel Products Company and fixed their security at $75,000.

The company incorporated under the laws of New Jersey, is a $2,000,000 concern and operates five steel plants—the Bristol Iron and Steel, at Bristol; Canton Iron and Steel, in Baltimore; Lebanon Chain Works, in Lebanon; Holidaysburg Nail and Iron Company, in Holidaysburg, and the West End Iron Company, in Philadelphia.

In asking for the appointment of the receivers George L. Plitt and Howard M. Plitt, trading as Plitt & Co., and Eli Attwood, stockholders and creditors of the company, set out that if injunction proceedings, which have been brought in other States, are to be allowed to be enforced it will mean that the company will be put out of business altogether.

Injunction proceedings were started in the Maryland Courts to restrain the operation of the Canton plant, with the result that it was closed down, and business stopped. The complaint of Plitt & Co. and Attwood, which is a stockholders' and creditors' bill, avers that if such proceedings are begun and injunctions issued, all the plants will be closed, with the ultimate result that the company will be forced to the wall. If the receivers are appointed, the complainants set out, there were greater possibilities of conducting the business, and it would also materially aid the company in collecting outstanding bills. Since the proceedings in the Maryland Courts, the bill says, railroads have refused permission to the company to run an account in the transportation of its product.

The Bristol plant has been shut down for several weeks.

A Religion of "Doing."

Editor Gazette:—I heard a woman exclaim "Wonderful!" on last Sunday, as I was leaving the Baptist Church, where three hundred and fifty women gathered and listened to an inspiring address by Prof. Francis Green, of the State Normal School and to some soul-stirring music.

To this adjective one might add many more and then not impart all that the service was and meant.

We, who were there, will not soon forget it or fail to be thankful to the pastor of the church who was good enough not to have forgotten the women, while thinking so incessantly of the men. I'm particularly thankful I was there, for it was to me a contrastingly interesting comparison to a discourse I heard in the morning. Both addresses were practically along the same line of thought. The preacher of the morning very glowingly commended the attitude of "Mary" as a "sitter" at the Master's feet while "Martha" had the reproach because she was more concerned about "doing." I may be allowed to add here that it must be the natural supposition that Martha necessarily sat "at the Master's feet" before she caught the inspiration to "do" for Him.

I'm not a theologian, but I shall never believe that any words of our Divine Lord were intended to lay more emphasis of commendation on the "sitters" than on the "doers." His life and words and works, teach us the very opposite!

"Not everyone that saith Lord, Lord, shall enter in; but he that doeth;" "I must work the works of Him that sent me;" "What doth it profit thee if ye have faith and have not works;" "Faith without works availeth nothing."

The "Marys" of life, be they feminine or masculine, are the failures of today who block the progress of all those with whom they come in contact! We are part of a world that is undergoing a constant revolution, and if we want this world to come out right side up, we must be "doers."

The thought came to me as I compared the two discourses: Did Jesus Christ live and die to impress men with an overcoming sense of their worthlessness, or did He seek to imbue them with a sense of their useful place as sons of God; as instruments of the Almighty in perfecting the plans by Him mapped out for the betterment of the race through "DOING," from the limitations imposed by our humanity?

Does the energetic, active person count?

These are questions which might be seriously considered, because they point toward the vital question, "Is the church today counting as it should?" Is the church, as a whole, really helping men and women to meet and solve the problems born of our material and mental advance during the last half century? Will it ever help if it insists upon faith as the sole requirement?

To the credit of many a pulpit, be it said, that this doctrine is not drilled into men and women as once it was. Many a pulpit today exerts a beneficent and helpful influence because its preaching is based upon human needs here and now, and not upon the possibilities of some future state. Many a city or country church is proving itself of real use and value to its community by "DOING" for that community; by bettering the surroundings and the physical conditions of men and women and supplying their present needs in some degree. And every church doing this is prospering as an uplifting agency, which is bound to appeal to men's souls through their humanity; or, if you please, through their sense of being.

It is a waste of space, however, to ask whether the active man or woman counts. With every sane individual they count. With every institution, commercial or philanthropic, they count. From every walk of life, from every center of humanity, the call is for them. The world no longer bases its acceptance of a man upon his personal belief, or profession, but upon his work and his character. And while it is utterly foolish to rest any contention upon a text from the Bible, it is undoubtedly the opinion of most persons that "Not every one that saith unto me, 'Lord Lord,' shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, but he that "Doeth."

All I desire to say to the preachment of Mr. Green's on last Sunday and to his closing words of "Whatsoever he bids thee do, do it," is Amen, And again, Amen! L. H. T.

Mothers Entertain Teachers.

A very pleasant affair took place yesterday afternoon in the Bristol high school assembly room when the mothers of Bristol were the hosts and entertained the Superintendent and teachers of the borough public schools.

The teachers added to the pleasure of the occasion by having some of their classes contribute to the programme. Miss McNally's school gave an exhibition of physical culture exercises, and Miss Wettling's classes rendered vocal music. A paper "How to be a Good Mother," was read by Mrs. R. T. Myers, and Mrs. F. King told of "Bed Time Horrors." After a discussion of these topics, Miss Baggs read some letters written by Bath street scholars. A social hour followed, which was much appreciated by those present. Seventy-five nice cups and saucers were presented the teachers by the mothers to be used upon similar occasions.

The teachers wish to thank the mothers for their kindness in making the presentations and also to make acknowledgment of appreciation of the interest taken by the parents in school affairs.

A new directory for Bucks county is in course of preparation. Watch for the advertising man. No connection with old publication. The new book will be published by a Philadelphia firm with up-to-date ideas.

PRESIDENT McCREA SETTLES ALL DOUBT

President McCrea, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has settled all doubt as to the location of the proposed new passenger station at Bristol on the line of the elevated tracks.

In response to a letter written by Walter F. Leedom, President McCrea stated that the location of the station would be in the vicinity of the Beaver Dam road. The decision to have the station located there, Mr. McCrea stated, "was reached and determined upon entirely with a view to suiting the public convenience." The letter further states, "the subject has received careful consideration by officers of the company and as Beaver Dam road is a diagonal road, it will be the best in serving the town, and as an overhead bridge is placed so that the station can be reached from all parts of the community without danger, this point was recommended as the most available location and one that will give the most general satisfaction."

LOCAL POLITICS.

There is a new Richmond in the political field this week, George Ross, Esq., of Doylestown, being reported to have shied his castor into the ring to contest with Jacob M. Winder, of Bristol, for the honor of the Democratic State Senatorial nomination. The latter, however, did not seem much disturbed by the announcement. He declared this is a bad year for lawyers, as there is a blight which will effect the candidacies of the exponents of Blackstone. Mr. Winder prides himself on being a farmer, and like Joseph R. Grundy, the Republican leader, owns a beautiful farm in West Bristol township, almost within hailing distance of the Grundy farm.

Mr. Ross is a very popular young man, a good lawyer and eminently qualified for the position he seeks. He is well known in baseball circles and for a long time was first baseman on the Doylestown team. The owner of the world's fastest pacer, however, apparantly fears him not.

The friends of Lemuel Vandegritt, of Bensalem township, have been urging him to seek the Assembly nomination at the Democratic primaries. Thomas Candy, of Langhorne, has also been mentioned.

It was learned last night that Lemuel Vandegrift has decided to enter the Assembly contest, and has circulated his petition for signatures.

William G. Huey, a banker and broker, residing in Lower Merion township, Montgomery county, has announced his candidacy for Congress and has circulated his petition to go before the primaries.

The primary election which will take place on Saturday, June 4, promises to develop some lively contests, as there are a number of opposing candidates. For the Republican State Senatorial nomination there are two candidates in the field, Clarence J. Buckman, of Middletown, and Ezra Carroll, of Warwick township. For the lower end Republican Assembly nomination, Franklin Gilkeson, of Bristol, and Orin Smith, of Wycombe, are entered and for the upper end nomination, Isaac Clymer, of Sellersville, and John F. Ball, of Quakertown, have obtained the necessary signatures to their petitions.

With contests on also in the Democratic primaries, the prospects do not portend a listless campaign.

Bristol Township Affairs.

Editor Gazette: Herewith inclosed please find financial statement of Bristol township for the year ending March 1, 1910, which we, a committee of Bristol township taxpayers, wish to have advertised in the Gazette. Send us the bill and we will pay for it. We understand that the statement was given by the supervisor to another Bristol paper, but as none of the taxpayers in the township have seen it, we want it in the Gazette for the benefit of the farmers who take your paper and we are willing to pay for it out of our own pockets.

We certainly are feeling the burden of heavy increased taxation and what do we get for it? Our township was bonded for $50,000 for stone roads. Last year it cost the taxpayers $2,760.77 for repairs to these stone highways, $2,052.83 for tarvia and freight for these same roads, and it will be noticed there is a bill against the township for $1,297.37 money owed to Joseph R. Grundy for the use of his stone roller to roll the tarvia.

To the best of our knowledge this roller was used less than two months and yet its use cost us over twelve hundred dollars.

We paid last year nearly two thousand dollars tax and interest on bonds for these stone roads and owe the State over six thousand dollars for the Tullytown stone road.

Oh! what a blessing these stone roads are for the farmers and automobilists! Eight thousand dollars it cost us last year for maintenance of these stone roads, and these roads are as bad now as they were before the money was spent.

By reference to the statement, which we want our tax payers to see, it will also be observed that the supervisors owe the Bristol bank $3,500 for borrowed money and among our assets is one stone crusher valued at $1,700!

What we would like to know where is that $1700 stone crusher. We have been unable to locate it, but it was rumored that a West Bristol township farmer was using the boiler to run a saw mill, but we find no report in the statement of the township receiving any rental. Where the crusher is no body seems to know.

Our township (the east end) is being rapidly built up with big manufactures—a million dollar pipe foundry is in operation and a big leather works, employing hundreds of hands, have been built, and rows of new houses built by the foundry company and yet the total valuation is but $100,000 more than it was two years ago.

Mr. Editor, we want this financial statement published in your paper; it looks like a scheme of the politicians to keep the information from the tax payers. Let us study this statement.

Public School Notes.

The Swastika Society of the High School gave their last public meeting for this year on Thursday evening, April 28th. The room was well filled with the friends of the high school pupils. The programme consisted of the regular minutes of the society, the reading of the Scrap Book, by Bernard W. Wilson. This was much enjoyed, especially the personal items which were jokes on the various members. Louise Cooper rendered a piano solo very acceptably and Ellwood Watt gave a vocal solo. A very bright little play, "The Minister's Wife," was given by several of the pupils. The programme as a whole was interesting and entertaining.

A parents' and teachers' meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, May 17th, in the Jefferson avenue building. John W. Moyer, of the Northeast Manual Training School, of Philadelphia, will be the speaker.

On Tuesday, May 10, at 8 p. m., will be given the musical at Jefferson avenue school building. The following fine programme is promised:

Violin solo, Miss Edith Wood.
Vocal solo, "Beautiful Land of Nod," Mrs. Bevan.
Vocal solo, "Spring Flowers, Miss Evelyn Connor, accompanied by Frank Connor, Jr.
Piano solos, Miss Laura King.
Vocal solo, "Little Boy Blue," B. Frank Connor.
Readings, Miss Reba Atkin.
Violin solo, Miss Edith Wood.

The orchestra will play at the beginning and close of the programme.

The following grades made high per cent. attendance for April: High school, 96; 8th grade, Bath street, 96; 2nd grade, Bath street, 94; 9th grade, 93; 7th grade, Bath street, 93; 3rd grade, Bath street, 91; 1st grade, Washington street, 91; 8th grade, Jefferson avenue, 91; 7th grade, Jefferson avenue, 91; 6th grade, Jefferson avenue, 91; 5th grade, Jefferson avenue, 90.

COMMITTEE TO ADVISE TAX RATE

School Board Treasurer Authorized to Borrow $3,500. Restrictions Placed on Use of Building.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Bristol School Board held on Wednesday evening, President Leech appointed the following special finance committee to approximate the expenses of the next school term, beginning June 1st and to recommend a tax rate that would produce sufficient revenue to meet the anticipated expenditure: Doron Green, David O. Taylor, Dr. W. C. LeCompte, Eugene Barrett and William V. Leech.

The treasurer, Edward H. Foster, stated that there was not enough money in the treasury to pay the salaries and that the Board would have to negotiate a loan. He said there was $1000 in the sinking fund that could be taken for temporary use. The treasurer was authorized to borrow $3,500 from the bank.

All the members were present except Messrs. Squier, Boyle, Coyle, Barrett and Rue. Doron Green was chosen secretary pro tem.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The treasurer reported that all orders drawn last meeting, amounting to $1,745 had been paid. The sum of $28.50 was received for tuition of non-residents, and $656.48 from the tax collector. The funds in the general account amounted to $1,524.04 and in the bond account, $2,804, there being insufficient money on hand to pay the current bills and salaries.

INSURANCE PLACED.

The Property committee reported that an insurance policy on the Jefferson avenue school building had been placed with the Fire Association of Philadelphia, for one year, for $15,000, the premium amounting to $37.50.

DIPHTHERIA CASES.

Two cases of diphtheria were reported at the Jefferson avenue school, one each in Miss Mansell's and Miss Beidleman's rooms. The rooms were thoroughly fumigated.

MORE COAL NEEDED.

The Supply committee reported that two tons of coal had to be purchased for the Jefferson avenue school building, the winter's supply having been exhausted.

BOOKS FOR LIBRARY.

The Library committee reported that thirty-two books had been purchased for the school library with the $100 given the committee by the board. One hundred and sixty-six volumes had been purchased, consisting of 61 volumes of historical and reference works, 26 girls' story books, 40 boys' story books and 29 miscellaneous at the total cost of $99.57.

TRUANT OFFICER'S REPORT.

The truant officer reported 34 cases of delinquents during the month which had received his attention, all of which had been settled satisfactorily.

MR. WANGER PRESENTED MAPS

Two large maps of the United States were received from Congressman Irving P. Wanger. The secretary was instructed to acknowledge the gift and convey the board's thanks to Mr. Wanger.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

The superintendent submitted the following report: Number pupils enrolled, 1058; greatest number present, 1034; least number present, 817; average attendance, 921; per cent. of attendance, 89; present every half day, 358; new pupils admitted, 14.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES.

A communication was received from H. Clay Beatty Post, G. A. R., inviting the superintendent, teachers and scholars of the grammar grade to participate in the annual Memorial Day exercises to be given by the post in the Methodist church.

TAX COLLECTOR'S REPORT.

Tax Collector Fred I. Kraft made the following report of his collections for 1909-10: Total amount of duplicate, $20,173.56; collected first sixty days, and paid treasurer, $16,332.71; less a 5 per cent. discount for prompt payment, of $872.37; collector's commission, of 2 per cent., $233.32; gross collections first 60 days, $17,538.40. Delinquent balance, $2,652.16.

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS.

The treasurer was granted an order for $1750, to pay off two bonds and interest.

Bills to the amount of $567.60 were read and orders ordered drawn for their payment.

Orders were ordered drawn for the payment of the superintendent's, teachers' and janitors' salaries for the month of April.

The date for the regular meeting of the board to close the business for the fiscal year was fixed for May 18.

THE ALUMNI CRITICISED.

President Leech stated that complaint had been registered with the board over the misbehavior of the High School Alumni Association when occupying the director's room for meeting purposes. Janitor Smith was summoned before the board and stated that on the evenings when the Alumni Association met in the building, instead of confining themselves to the meeting room the members roamed over the building, went into the commercial course room, disturbed the typewriting machines, turned on the lights, rummaged through the teachers' desks and took their belongings, and took general possession of the building.

President Leech was indignant and declared if the association of graduates of the high school did not know how to behave themselves they would be denied all privileges of the building and upon his recommendation a resolution was adopted that no school society could have any use of the rooms without first obtaining the permission of the board or in the interim between board meetings permission must be obtained from the Property committee of which Mr. Green is chairman. The application for use of the school rooms must signify the date for which the room is wanted and for what purpose.

The meeting then adjourned.

Girls May Day Frolic.

The spectacular and attractive May Day exercises of the Stevens School for girls, 221 Chelten avenue, Germantown, were given on Monday under the direction of Miss Florence King, of Bath Road, Bristol. The broad lawns about the school house, with low hanging branches of the trees, made a charming setting for the white gowned maidens, waving the many colored ribbons of the May pole as they tripped lightly about to the quaint old English May time music. In quick succession followed the Swedish folk dance by the seniors and juniors, the dancers wearing the dress of that people; hyacinth dance by the freshman class; very creditable Indian club drill by sturdy sophomores in white jumpers and blue skirts, running and games by the wee pupils of the primary department and a flag medley to the strains of "America," "Dixie," "The Star Spangled Banner" and other patriotic airs.

Everywhere floated the blue and gold banners and after the exercises the 135 pupils and their many friends were served with luncheon on the lawn.

S. Vandegrift, deceased, southeast 27.26 perches to a corner in the middle of said railroad, and thence along the middle of same southwest 49 ft. 2 inches to the place of beginning. Containing 80 perches of land, more or less.

The improvements consist of a 2 1-2 story frame dwelling house, with 2 rooms and an out kitchen on the first floor, 2 rooms on the second floor and a celled attic, good cellar underneath and well of excellent water at the door. Also woodshed and other necessary outbuildings. Fine fruit and shade trees.

This property is situate on the edge of the village of Eddington. It is in good repair, on the line of the trolley, convenient to churches, schools, railroad and stores. It is surrounded by a large lot of land and is one of the most desirable locations in the township for a comfortable and convenient home.

The sale will be positive to settle estate of decedent and presents a splendid opportunity for persons seeking a suitable home or a profitable investment.

Sale will commence promptly at 2 o'clock, p. m., on said day when conditions will be made known by

GREENWOOD COAL.

This is the highest grade of Lehigh Coal known; and the only coal that sells above the adopted circular price. Greenwood family sizes sell at 20 cents above circular, and pea at 25 cents above circular. I propose to give my customers this superior coal at the regular prices, $6 50 for Stove, Chestnut and Egg and $5 00 for Pea, 2240 pounds. I had a few boats of this coal last year but did not advertise it, not being able to get much of it, the mine being small and the demand large This year I have contracted for my entire supply ALL GREENWOOD. Order early as price will advance.
